WEDNESDAY MORNING APRIL 30 1862

History Changed

Sidney Johnson is dead Let us consider a moment what might have been the result had not Senator Nesmith put the Administration on their guard as to the ultimate designs of the secessionists on this coast Mr Sumner was ordered to the Pacific He went incog upon the steamer—remained in his state room till the noble vessel had passed Sandy Hook and the last communication had been held with the land Lane and Gwin were on board What their feelings must have been when they saw the commanding form of the gallant Sumner, can be better realized than described As the steamer entered the Golden Gate the yawl boat was lowered, and strong and willing hands pulled her cheerily away towards the fort In a few moments Sumner was in the fortress which protects and controls the destinies of the Pacific coast He informed the traitor Johnson cringing before him, that he was there to take command. From that moment the future peace, quiet, prosperity of this coast was secure California and Oregon were bound by inseparable ties to the unity and glory of the United States

But suppose Mr Lincoln and his advisers had been less on the alert, that Johnson had been afforded time to turn over the forts arsenals, munitions of war to the high chivalry of California Twenty thousand well armed men could have effectually quelled any uprising of the loyal people of these States and had they risen they would have been put down with a strong hand—their lives jeopardized, their property stolen or destroyed.—They would have beheld their houses in flames their homes given over to sacrilege and license. Then indeed would every Union man have been obliged to fight literally for his altars and his fires then we might have seen fulfilled the vaunting of Lane in the Senate Chamber, that he would come to the rescue of his Southern friends with ten thousand armed men. Where Sykes Metcalf, and Brigadier General John K Lamerick would have been we already know Their knives are whetted with hate and pointed at their country's honor and welfare Who would have commanded the battalion to keep Rogue river quiet? Is it too much to imagine that O'Meara might have held high command, and that Viving would have been hanging around the Quartermaster's Department? Would Joe Lane have been residing quietly on his farm? What position would General John F Miller, the would be Governor of Oregon, have held in the Confederate forces which would have had for their business to keep the loyal citizens of the Willamette quiet? How brave and bold Johnny would have been as he rode his fierce charger through our street and lorded it over the d—d Yankees Our friend Watt would have been up here at Oregon City raising his hand in holy horror over the tribulations of his country His secesh friends would not let him talk of compromise or Dwyerites.

Compromise.—To all our good peace democrats and compromise love to the Union-Jeff Davis sympathizers we commend the consideration of the following resolutions passed by the Tennessee Rebel Legislature just before Grant and Buell scared them off

"Resolved, That we cannot regard any proposition of reconstruction of the Union in any other light than as a crowning insult to our intelligence and manhood

"Resolved, That any Commissioners appointed by the Lincoln Congress at Washington to the Government of the Confederate States, having for their object a reconstruction of the old Union should be at once promptly rejected"

From Olympia and the North.—Rev E W Foster has commenced the publication of a small monthly called the Far West devoted to moral and religious instruction

A national salute in honor of the Federal victory at Pittsburg Landing was fired in Olympia on the 23d

The sloop Alert took eleven passengers from Olympia to Victoria on their way to Cariboo

Latest dates from Cariboo say the weather is very cold and nothing doing in the mines

Personal.—Mr John M Murphy editor of the Olympia Standard called on us last evening He appears to be in good health

Post Office Discontinued.—Mt Hood Post office, Yamhill county has been discontinued

From the Upper Columbia

The steamer Idaho which arrived last night brought Wells Fargo & Co's express from the Salmon river mines and $75,000 in gold dust The steamer Tenino has made a successful trip to Lewiston bringing back to Wallula some thirty passengers, who had in their possession over $50,000 making in all about $125,000 which came down last night

We are indebted to Wells Fargo & Co for a copy of the Walla Walla Statesman from which we take the following items

Lieut Mullan has received orders to suspend the work on the Fort Benton Military Road and to return to Walla Walla immediately The road is nearly finished, and in passable traveling condition to Fort Benton

Col Lee in command at Fort Walla Walla is ordered to San Francisco Capt Rowell is left in charge

Bibee who killed a man named Davis last fall escaped from the jail at Walla Walla

A new stage line has been started between Walla Walla and Lewiston

A townsite named Clarkston has been surveyed above Lewiston running from the boundaries of Lewiston to Craig's Ferry

Lieut Mullan has been promoted to a captaincy in the 2d Artillery, and Lieut Marsh to a captaincy in the 2d infantry

A young man named Nat Staples formerly of Portland died at Lewiston week before last of consumption

On Monday the 28th inst a gunsmith named Hellenhouse committed suicide by shooting himself at the Dalles

From the Mines

We are permitted to publish the following letter written to Mr S N Arrigoni, of this city from Lewiston

Lewiston April 23d, 1862

Friend Arrigoni—This town is situated in the forks of the Snake and Clearwater rivers, and is bound to command in a trading capacity the landing of all others east of the Cascades for supplying the mining community the backing of Walla Walla to the contrary notwithstanding as it catches both the steamboats and teams with pack train trade Miners will generally, as well as merchants outfit here, as it saves eighty-four miles travel to Walla Walla We are all anxiously awaiting the arrival of the first steamer, as provisions are scarce and bacon readily commands 75 cts per lb and has been as high as $1 per lb.; consequently living costs about $2 per day and cook yourself There is about 40 miles to travel through the snow from here to the mines but the few last warm days have diminished it In the Salmon mines the snow is about seven feet deep which precludes the idea of prospecting However, those who have their claims open are paying expenses Flour sells here at $2 per lb., or $200 per bbl Coffee, $2,50, dried apples, sugar candles, gum boots, shovels, picks &c., are very scarce and little or no bacon which readily commands $5 per lb The present Salmon mines are on the hilltops bordering on the Salmon river which makes them so full of snow I understand that the river diggings along the bank will readily pay $10 and $20 per day to the hand but these I have not prospected The great quantity of people constantly arriving will undoubtedly develope rich new mines the coming summer It is supposed that in Oro Fino and Elk City districts more gold will be taken out the coming season than ever before The hired wages on claims will generally be $6 and $8 per day Many rich quartz veins are said to be discovered between Elk City and Salmon mines

Next month the people will be handling a good deal of dust They have already commenced working at Oro Fino and those who own claims are making generally about $10 per day I think the present Salmon river mines are confined to a very small locality of about two miles square; but if prospected further off from Florence City will I think be more advantageous to incoming parties than to rush into the already discovered places, as evidently many will do disappointed for good claims must be hunted by prospecting and toil unless you wish to purchase at high prices

Our Mayor

Editor Oregonian

The Mayor of this city—he has been called the "Slippery Cuss"—was elected as a Union man he signed the Union Call, he made a Fourth of July Union speech, he proposed to parties in this town to form secret Union clubs to counteract the designs of the Golden Circle ! Had the good people of this city thought for a moment that he was leagued with our enemies he could not have been elected He has moved his craft in secesh waters and in doing so played the game of the Confederate steamer Nashville when she ran the blockade hoisted the Stars and Stripes and kept them flying until they had answered a purpose One year since Farrar raised a volunteer company to fight for the Union He will now probably raise another to fight against it.

UNION

The Lamentations of a Rebel Jeremiah.—A late number of the Richmond Examiner delivers itself as follows

If the South in Confederacy intends to occupy itself with statutes and amendments, with discussions and deliberations, with speeches to show that this cannot be done and that cannot be done because there is no power and no constitutionality, the country is lost What are needed now are peremptory orders and sternly enforced obedience Let the Legislatures, Senates and Conventions legalize hereafter, what must be done for the salvation of all; or if they will not let Courts punish the glorious crime which arms no longer overawe them! Oh that we had in the War Department the man who dares take the responsibility—the fearless man who would throw considerations of self to the winds who would raise the armies needed organize them for absolute obedience strike opposition powerless deal to every domestic traitor a sudden death burn every shred of cotton and tobacco that the enemy approaches make a cinder heap of every city that admits him

LATER FROM THE EAST.

The Battle at Pittsburg Landing—Fort Wright Captured—Defenses of New Orleans—News from Fort Monroe—Matters at Yorktown—The Capture of Fort Pulaski—Evacuation at Jacksonville Florida—Federal Expedition up the Rappahannock—Operations of Shields and Banks—Another Battle Expected at Pittsburg—Gold in Central America—Gen Hunter's Official Report.

Chicago, April 18.—A correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, writing from Savannah, Tenn under date of the 10th says of the battle of Pittsburg Landing or as properly termed Shiloh's that the Confederates had one hundred and sixty three regiments on the field although these were not all full Nearly every account agrees in placing their forces at not less than ninety thousand men

A letter received from Cairo this morning says that Fort Wright [on the Mississippi river] has been captured The time when this took place is not stated

The New Orleans correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch describing the defences of that city, says forts Jackson and St Philip are armed with one hundred and seventy guns mostly twenty eight pounders rifled The navigation of the river is stopped by a dam across the river half a mile above the forts No flotilla on earth could force this dam in less than two hours in which time the guns from the fort would destroy them Between the forts and New Orleans there is a constant succession of earth works At the plain of Chalmette are redoubts armed with rifled cannon which have been found effective at a range of five miles In forts Jackson and St Philip are three thousand men a great portion of them experienced artillerymen and gunners who have served in the navy In New Orleans there are thirty two thousand infantry and as many more are quartered in the neighborhood

Fort Monroe, April 18.—The French steamer Gassendi is still at Norfolk, waiting the return of the French Minister from Richmond

An order has been issued from the Department at Washington that persons not immediately connected with the troops in a military capacity shall be prohibited from visiting the army at Yorktown

At Yorktown firing took place last night and this morning, without producing much effect on either side Some six or eight of our men were killed

A correspondent of the Baltimore American says at intervals last night and this morning heavy cannonading was heard in the direction of Yorktown Forty deserters who came into our lines report that Jeff Davis had arrived at the rebel camp and it was understood that he would take command in the approaching battle They represent that the enemy are in great force Work is rapidly progressing throughout the peninsula and reinforcements are constantly arriving from Norfolk, Fredericksburg and North Carolina The rebel Generals openly declare their intention to make their great battle of the war there, and the strongest conviction is expressed that they will overpower the Federal forces and drive them from the peninsula Constant skirmishing is carried on by the riflemen Occasionally shot and shell are thrown There was heavy skirmishing this morning beyond Warwick Court house An attack was made by the enemy in force They were repulsed after a brisk artillery duel The loss of the enemy is thought to be heavy We lost a dozen killed and wounded

A dispatch from McClellan's headquarters says that near midnight the enemy attacked General Smith's position and attempted to carry his guns They were handsomely repulsed and some prisoners were taken

Yorktown has been shelled by our gunboats but without effect There has been a good deal of firing from the Yorktown batteries In the engagement of Wednesday, between the Third Vermont and the enemy, thirty two of our men were killed and ninety wounded Our men behaved gallantly driving a superior force of the enemy from a fortified position but the rebels being reinforced, they were obliged to retire Our artillery did great execution About one o'clock this morning the enemy in force attempted to cross down in front of our lines, with a view of capturing one of our batteries The reserve force of our infantry opened fire on them forcing them to retire At daylight both parties opened fire with artillery, which continues. Nine of our troops have been killed

New York, April 19.—The Herald's Fortress Monroe correspondent says that a Colonel and Lieut Colonel from the rebel army came over and surrendered themselves prisoners of war These two officers report that an entire Irish Brigade had mutinied, and by order of Jeff Davis were deprived of their arms and sent to the rear

The following is an account of the capture of Fort Pulaski On the morning of the 10th, Gen Gilmore demanded an unconditional surrender of the fort which was refused—Our batteries immediately opened fire which continued till sunset The General then placed a battery of Parrott and James guns within 1,000 yards of the fort and commenced firing at midnight. Next morning two o'clock a white flag was displayed by Col Olmstead, the rebel commander who declared that it was impossible to hold out any longer as most of his guns were dismounted The Federal loss was one killed and one slightly wounded The rebel loss was eight men badly wounded and 385 made prisoners

Jacksonville (Fla) has been evacuated, our troops arriving at Hilton Head on the 5th of March

Washington, April 18th.—The Select Committee to investigate the loss of the Norfolk Navy Yard and Harper's Ferry report that the total value of the property taken at Norfolk at $974 000 The number of guns seized by the rebels was 200 The Committee after a long review of the matter censure the Buchanan Administration for gross neglect of duty and say that Lincoln's Administration cannot be held blameless, for thirty six days elapsed without any efforts to defend the yard The Committee say there never was any occasion for the destruction and abandonment of the property at Norfolk there being no enemy there except a few undisciplined, unarmed militia, while our forces outnumbered them two to one. In regard to Harper's Ferry, the Committee commend the conduct of Captain Jones in effecting the destruction of the arsenal and arms therein

Washington, April 17th.—After burning about one hundred and fifty log houses at Lowry's Point our crews returned to their ships loaded with blankets muskets and medicines left by the rebels in their flight The fleet proceeded to Rappahannock two miles above On arriving the Commodore landed and was met by a large concourse of citizens of all colors and ages A flag was hoisted and the people told that if it was torn down the town would be burned Contrabands brought information that four large schooners and other obstructions had been sunk in the narrow channel five miles from Fredericksburg to prevent our progress As far as could be ascertained no rebel soldiers were on the neck of land between the Potomac and the Rappahannock except a few pickets, probably imposed as commanders to prevent the escape of the negroes On the fifteenth, our fleet captured a vessel on board of which was found letters from which it was ascertained that the rebels were evacuating Fredericksburg and talked of burning the town The fleet on their return captured two very fine schooners at the mouth of Collin's creek

Washington, April 18th.—General Shields division occupied Mount Jackson yesterday morning At seven o'clock the enemy appeared in force in front of Rudes' Hill They resisted our advance with energy in order to obtain time to burn the bridges, locomotives and cars which would accumulate at the terminus of the railroad Our movements were so sudden that we were able to save the bridges two locomotives and several cars Many prisoners have been taken, and several horses were captured

General Banks telegraphs to the Department from New Market that that place was occupied by our forces last night There had been some artillery skirmishing, but no loss on our side

St Louis, April 18th.—Officers from Pittsburg Landing report all quiet there Active preparations were going on for another battle It was supposed that the enemy intended to make a second dashing attack upon the Federal forces The hostile armies are so close that the skirmishing of pickets is continually going on

Indian graves containing gold have been discovered on Santa Clara's Land Central America Much excitement prevailed in that region

Gen Hunter's official report of the capture of Fort Pulaski says: "We captured forty seven guns, four thousand pounds of powder and a good supply of provisions"

Washington, April 19th.—Special dispatches to the New York papers state it is said on the authority of intercepted letters from Richmond, that several editors of rebel newspapers have been hung for publishing intelligence which was contraband of war

The prospect of the passage of the Pacific Railroad Bill during the present session is not promising

Recipe for Potato Pudding.

A scene of this kind had just occurred when Mrs Darling made her visit, and a new raw Irish girl had that morning been installed in the place of the one discharged. The duty of this girl was to answer the door bell and help Mrs Mudlaw. In fact the hardest and most disagreeable of the kitchen work came upon her. When Mrs. Darling rang Mrs Philpot was in the kitchen giving instructions to Peggy, or rather acquiescing in those which Mrs Mudlaw was laying down

"There goes the bell" and that important personage, and Mrs Philpot hastened to an upper window to see who it was. Having satisfied herself she came back and told Peggy to go and admit the lady

"Why don't you start, you?" yelled Mrs Mudlaw.

"Well well, what'll I do now?" said Peggy, whirling round in that bewildered way peculiar to Irish girls.

"Do!" roared Mudlaw. "Don't you know nothin'? Haint we just been tellin' ye it was your duty to tend to the door bell? Run to the front door and let 'em in, and show 'em into the drawin' room. You know where that is, don't you?"

"Faith, I know that," answered Peggy, and away she ran, thanking her stars that there was at least one thing that she knew

"It's no one that I know, I'm sure" said Mrs Philpot, after Peggy had gone "at least the bonnet and shawl are not familiar to me. I presume it is some one I don't care about seeing"

"I shouldn't wonder" said Mudlaw "But I s'pose you couldn't do otherways, as the curnel has has given orders that nobody aint to be refused till after 'lection."

With much confusion and stumbling, the unfortunate Peggy ushered Mrs Darling into the nursery, which was also Mrs Philpot's ordinary sitting room. It was directly over the kitchen, and heated from the cooking stove by means of a drum, or dummy, as Mrs. Mudlaw called it Every word that was said in the kitchen could easily be heard in the nursery—quite a convenience to Mudlaw, as it enabled her often to communicate with Mrs Philpot without the trouble of going up stairs Many an interesting account of what she did when Mr Mudlaw was living, and how they managed at General K.'s when she was staying there, has gone up that stove pipe

The nursery was in a state of the greatest disorder, as was usually the case, though the children were all out just then. Sukey, the nurse-girl, had taken the baby out to ride, and Philip Augustus had gone with them, and Zoe Matilda was at school. Playthings of every description, carts horses, dolls, as well as children's books and clothes, were scattered about the room in what Mrs Darling called "awful confusion" But she had not time for inward comments upon this state of things, before her attention was called to the conversation going on below:

"It's Mrs Darling as wishes to see you mum" said Peggy.

"That Mrs. Darling! Did you ever!" exclaimed Mrs Philpot.

"She ain't nobody, is she?" said Mrs. Mudlaw

"Nobody at all. Her husband is a cabinet-maker; but the colonel has charged it upon me to be polite to her just now. He wished me to call on her but I wouldn't condescend to stoop so low as that, though he made me promise to treat her with attention if she called."

"Well, I wouldn't do it, if I was you," said Mrs. Mudlaw. "I'd be mistress in my own house, anyhow."

"But, you know, it's for his interest now. He says that Darling has a great deal of influence among mechanics—he can command a good many votes."

"Oh, I remember now! he's one of them codgers that dined here while you was away, that the curnel was laughin' about afterwards, and tellin' you how awkward they handled the silver forks"

"Yes. Isn't it provoking to have to be polite to such people? Well, I shall be glad when 'lection's over, for the colonel says I may cut them all then and I think it won't be long before they sink back to their own level." And Mrs. Philpot arose with a sigh, and ascended to the drawing room, arranging her features into a gracious and patronizing expression as she went.

Mrs. Darling's feelings during this conversation "can be better imagined than described," as the novels would say. Her first impulse was to leave the house without waiting for Mrs. Philpot's appearance, and she rose and made a few steps with that intention; but, on second thoughts, she resolved to remain, and let her know that she came only on an errand, and resumed her seat

When Mrs. Philpot found no one in the drawing room, she returned to the kitchen, supposing that her visitor had gone.

"She's gone," said she, "without waiting for me She doesn't know enough about good society to know that a lady don't make her appearance the moment she's called."

"I shouldn't wonder if she was in the nursery all the time," said Mudlaw "for I heard a stepping up there a while ago, and the children haint got home yet. Where did you take her to, Peggy?"

"Why, I tuck her in the dhrawin'-room sure, as you tould me, right overhed," said Peggy, in some alarm.

"You blunderin' Irish gumphead! Don't you know the drawin'-room from the nursery?"

"Och! but I thought it was the dhrawin'-room for didn't I see the young masther a drawin' his cart, and wasn't Shukey a dhrawin' the baby about the floore by its feet, when I went up to take the wather this mornin'?"

"There, I told you she was born a fool!" said Mudlaw, in a rage. "She'll never know nothing—she'll never learn nothing—you may as well send her off first as last."

"Hush! don't speak so loud" said Mrs Philpot, in a whisper "She can hear all you say—she has heard enough already. Dear me, what shall I do! The colonel will be so provoked How could you be so dumb, Peggy? Run right up and take her into the drawing-room. Stop! you needn't you will be sure to make some other mistake. I will go myself"

In a state of mind not to be envied, Mrs Philpot hastened to the nursery. But, as she entertained a faint hope that the conversation had not penetrated through Mrs Darling's bonnet, she endeavored to hide her embarassment under an affable smile, extended her hand gracefully and drawled out a genteel welcome to her visitor

"Delighted to see you Mrs Darling but very sorry you should have been brought into the nursery"—no wonder she's sorry, thought Mrs Darling—"these raw Irish girls are so stupid. Walk into the parlor, if you please"

"No, I thank you, Mrs Philpot, I'd as soon sit here," returned Mrs Darling "I can only stay a moment. I called to ask for a recipe for potato pudding Mr. Darling tasted one when he dined with Col Philpot, and liked it so well he wished me to get directions for making it."

"Potato pudding! Ah yes, I recollect Mudlaw, my cook does make a very good plain thing which she calls a potato pudding, but I know nothing about her manner of preparing it. I will call her, however, and she shall tell you herself" Thereupon she pulled the bell, and Peggy shortly after appeared looking more frightened and bewildered than ever

Of all diseases, the first great cause,
Springs from neglect of Nature's laws

To the Afflicted!

Suffer not when a cure is guaranteed in all stages of secret disease—Self Abuse, Nervous Debility, Syphilis in all its stages, Strictures, Gleet, Gravel, Diabetes, diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Mercurial Rheumatism, Scrofula, Pains in the Bones and Ankles, diseases of the Lungs, Throat, Nose and Eyes, Ulcers upon the Body or Limbs, Cancers, Dropsy, Epileptic Fits, St Vitus Dance—and all diseases arising from a derangement of the sexual organs—such as Nervous Trembling, Loss of Memory, Loss of Power, General Weakness, Dimness of Vision, with peculiar spots appearing before the eyes, Loss of Sight, Wakefulness, Dyspepsia, Liver Disease, Eruptions upon the Face, Pains in the Back and Head, Female Irregularities—and all improper discharges of both sexes. It matters not from what cause the disease originated, however long standing or obstinate the case, recovery is certain, and in a shorter time than a permanent cure can be effected by any other treatment, even after the disease has baffled the skill of eminent physicians, and resisted all their means of cure. The medicines prescribed are pleasant, without odor, entirely vegetable, causing no sickness, and free from mercury or balsam. During fifteen years of practice in Europe, the Atlantic States and California, I have rescued from the jaws of death many thousands, who, in the last stages of the above mentioned diseases, had been given up to die by their physicians, which warrants me in promising, to the afflicted, who may place themselves under my care a speedy and permanent cure. Private diseases are the greatest enemies to health, as they are the first cause of consumption, scrofula and many other diseases, and should be a terror to the human family. A permanent cure is scarcely ever effected—a majority of cases falling into the hands of incompetent persons who not only fail to cure the disease but ruin the constitution, filling the system with mercury, which with the disease, hastens the sufferer into a rapid consumption. But should the disease and the treatment not cause death speedily, and the victim marries, the disease is entailed upon the children, who are born with feeble constitutions, and the current of life corrupted by a virus which betrays itself in scrofula, tetter, ulcers, eruptions and other affections of the skin, eyes, throat and lungs, entailing upon them a brief existence of suffering, and consigning them to an early grave.

Self-abuse is another formidable enemy to health, for nothing else in the dread catalogue of human diseases causes so destructive a drain upon the system—drawing its thousands of victims through a few years of suffering down to an untimely grave. It destroys the nervous system, rapidly wastes away the energies of life, causes mental derangement, prevents the proper development of the system, disqualifies for marriage, society, business, and all earthly happiness, and leaves the sufferer wrecked in body and mind, predisposed to consumption and a train of evils more to be dreaded than death itself. With the fullest confidence I assure the unfortunate victims of self-abuse that a permanent and speedy cure can be effected, and with the abandonment of ruinous practices, my patients can be restored to robust, vigorous health.

Irregularities, and all diseases of males and females treated on principles established by fifteen years of practice and sanctioned by thousands of the most remarkable cures.—Medicines with full directions sent to any part of the State, Oregon and Washington Territory, by patients communicating their symptoms by letter.

All business correspondence strictly confidential. Address DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, Medical Institute, Sacramento street, below Montgomery, opposite Pacific Mail Steamship Co.'s Office, San Francisco.

Remarkable Instance of Medical Relief

Below we publish the certificates of those of the sufferers from the pangs of disease who, having recovered their former health, and impelled by gratitude make known their cures and remedial agent, and their statement are authenticated by a Notary Public. The demands of society imperiously command their publicity and we commend them to the attention of all afflicted.

Certificate.—The undersigned, desirous of acquainting those who may be unfortunately similarly afflicted where a permanent relief of their sufferings may be obtained, feels it his duty thus publicly to express his most sincere gratitude to Dr. L. J. Czapkay for the permanent recovery of his health. Borne down by the distressing symptoms incident to the vicious practices of uncontrollable passion in youth, depressed in body and mind, unable to perform even the most trifling duty imposed upon the ordinary avocations of life, I sought the advice of many physicians, who at first regarded my disease as of trifling importance—but, alas! after a few weeks, and in several instances months of their treatment I found to my unutterable horror that instead of relief, my symptoms became more alarming in their torture, and being told by one that my disease being principally confined to the brain medicine would be of little consequence, I despaired of ever regaining my health, strength, and energy, and as a last resort and with but a faint hope, called upon Dr. Czapkay, who after examining my case, prescribed some medicine which almost instantly relieved me of the dull pain and dizziness in my head. Encouraged by the result I resolved to place myself immediately under his care, and by a strict obedience to all his directions and advice, my head became clear and my ideas collected; the constant pain in my back and groins the weakness of my limbs, the nervous reaction of my whole body on the slightest alarm or excitement, the misanthropy and evil forebodings, the self-distrust and want of confidence in others, the incapacity to study, and want of resolution, the frightful, exciting, and at times pleas night, followed by involuntary discharges, peared, and in fact, in two months after the doctor I felt as if inspired by a new life but a short time ago I contemplated to end hand. With the view to guard the unfort into the snares of incompetent quacks, I offer this testimony to the merit and skill of and recommend him to all who may stand in dal advice, being assured by my own ex under his care a radical and permanent cu
